

National Representative

Be a Representative for ENAS in your country

Description of the Role

The national representative will act as an Ambassador for ENAS in their country and assist with the mission and goals of ENAS, as follows;

- To actively engage with the respective national university sports association and to improve the partnerships
- To encourage member activity through networking, conference attendance, sharing of ideas, exchanges, and projects.
- To encourage new members from that country
- To receive and send communications to and from ENAS
- To represent the views, current trends and issues of that country

What you can expect from ENAS;

- Regular communication from the ENAS Officer and/or ENAS EC and up to date information readily available
- Support and endorsement of your time for ENAS duties
- We invite you to communicate with us (online or in person), on relevant topics of discussion or development of ENAS.
- We will provide you with contacts of the other National Representatives and invite you to participate in this forum
- We will ensure you have appropriate appreciation and recognition!

What ENAS expects of you;

- ENAS will expect you to serve for at least 2 years. If for some reason you cannot fulfill this or when the time expires we would ask that you direct us to a colleague who will take over from you.
- You may be asked to actively participate in ENAS networking events and programmes, such as the Buddy Scheme for new members, to chair workshops, or to represent your country at ENAS assembly
- Promote the conference – tell your colleagues, invite some to attend! Get the word out on your blog, shared calendars, message boards and social networks.

Selection Criteria

Candidates must be nominated by two members, where possible from that same country but not from the same Institution.
